An Excellent Performance.

The Holy City, which was given here Tuesday night, was one of the rarest exhibitions of dramatic power that has been seen upon this stage for some time past.
Miss Luella Morey gave an excellent personification of "Salome," the principal lady character, and her gracefulness and talent were shown in such a way as to raise her acting to the highest standard.
Mr. Edgar Jones displayed his powers as Marius, a young Roman soldier, and thrilled the audience by his eloquence and splendid bearing. His was perhaps the strongest role.
L. A. Martelle had a very strong part in Caiaphas.
W. M. Sherwin had the character of Judas Iscariot. In the mad scene Mr. Sherwin had fine opportunities to display his talents.
These are the most difficult and striking characters, but there are many others scarcely inferior.
The scenery and effects were splendid and altogether the performance was one of the most creditable and satisfactory seen here this year. Mr. Haerle spares no pains to secure the best attractions available and this proved one of the happiest of his bookings.

The Children's Recital at the Lexington College Chapel Monday evening afforded much pleasure to the large and enthusiastic audience which attended. Many of the children exhibited remarkable talent and all showed the effects of careful and competent training. The program, of course, consisted mostly of piano numbers, but was varied with a chorus, several violin selections and a reading.
Miss Helen Frazer's selections were played well, with precision and accuracy.
The audience was delighted with the violin music of Miss Jackson, who graciously responded to an encore.
The numbers given by Miss Pearl Fulkerson were well received, and the violin trio was unusually good.
Misses Graiser and Cole played their due and solos in a very creditable manner.
Miss Helen Womack displayed versatility in giving a delightful reading and a piano number.
Russian Romance and Will o' the Wisp were rendered in a pleasing style by Miss Nickerson.
Mas er Wingate Moorehead gave a violin number which added much to the program.
The Misses Silverstone played a piano duet which was well given and appreciated.
Miss Laura Wilson's number was rendered with ease and expression.
On several occasions Miss Nettie Fredendall afforded great pleasure to Lexington audiences with her playing, and her selections of Monday evening came up to their usual high standard.
The quartette made a very pretty closing number to the program.

Atterbury-Talbot.

Carl L. Atterbury, of Argentine Kansas and Miss Maud Talbot were married in this city at noon Thursday at the home of the bride's father Butler Talbot. Rev. Mansfield officiating. The bride was reared here but has been employed as a typewriter and stenographer in Kansas City for several years.
Mr. Atterbury will leave soon for Panama where he has a civil service position. Mrs. Atterbury will join him as soon as he makes proper arrangements.

The Peak-Bank Case Postponed.

The case of Laurence Peak against the Commercial Bank, set for trial in the Circuit Court Thursday, was postponed until next Monday at 1:30 at the request of James A. Reed, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff, who was called home by the illness of his wife.

Lafayette Presbytery

The Lafayette Presbytery held its first meeting in the Presbyterian church of this city Tuesday night. The moderator, Rev. J. E. Abbot, of Marshall, preached the sermon on the subject of "The Giving the Gospel to the Gentiles."
After the sermon the Presbytery was organized. Rev. J. C. Venable of the Memorial church of Napton was chosen by acclamation as the new moderator.
There were three meetings Wednesday, business meetings at 9 o'clock a. m. and 2 p. m., and public worship at 7:30 p. m. The evening service consisted of a popular discussion of home missions. The following representatives were present from out of town: Wm. Hunter, California; W. A. Rowe, of Concordia; Rev. N. H. McCann, Walter Bascomb, of Odessa; Rev. X. Ryland, of Higginsville; Rev. W. O. McCluer, of Sparta; Rev. F. A. L. Ried, of Lee's Summit; Rev. E. A. Jenken, of Carthage; Rev. J. E. Abbot, A. Leonard, Gaudin, Haynes, of Marshall; Rev. G. T. Thompson, L. N. Musser, of Tusculum; Rev. J. C. Venable, T. E. Hall, of Napton; Rev. J. M. Chaney, J. M. Chaney, Jr., of Independence; Rev. A. W. Milster, N. B. Buck, of Waverly; T. C. Mahlin, of Lamonte; Rev. H. B. Bonde, L. W. Holland, of Pleasant Hill; Rev. L. F. Ross, of Lamar; G. W. Jurey, of Springfield; J. P. Finley, Nelson; Rev. W. E. Beattie, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Audrey, Rev. A. Y. Beattie, Forsyth; R. E. M. Brune, A. J. Wilson, Mt. Olive; Rev. J. J. Squire, Wm. Belle, Corder; A. F. Irvine, of Hughesville; Wm. Hansen, of Tusculum.
The session Thursday was largely given over to the discussion of home missions. In addition to this most of the routine work was disposed of.
The Presbytery elected Rev. X. Ryland of Higginsville as ministerial delegate to the next general assembly which will meet in Birmingham, Alabama during the coming summer. Dr. E. C. Gordon of this place was chosen alternate. J. M. Chaney Jr., of Independence was elected as lay delegate with Major Vandiver of Higginsville as alternate.
The evening service consisted of a popular consideration of the subject of home missions. The principal speakers were Rev. J. E. Abbot of Marshall, L. F. Ross of Lamar, and Prosecuting Attorney Aubry of Taney county. Mr. Aubry's talk was particularly interesting and valuable, as he comes from Forsyth, the location of the contemplated School of the Ozarks. Only a few years ago religion was not countenanced in Taney county and a school house would be burned if devotional exercises were held in it.
Dr. Kerr, of Westminster college, and Rev. C. M. McPheeters, president of Synodical college, of Fulton, were in attendance Thursday.
The delegates finished their work Thursday afternoon.

The Good-Natured Man.

It is indeed refreshing in this day when comedy is of the slip-stick farce variety, to see a good, clean, old English comedy staged well and played conscientiously. Such a production was "The Good-Natured Man" as played by "Thyrus," the dramatic club of Washington University at the opera house Thursday night. As literature this work of Goldsmith's is the best drama that the people of Lexington have had an opportunity of seeing this winter. Only three companies in America have ever undertaken its production and those were college dramatic clubs. Consequently it has never attained the popularity that "She Stoops to Conquer" possesses. It is, nevertheless, an excellent comedy with plenty of amusing situations, dramatic climaxes and opportunities for clever acting.
The audience last night was ideal--large, sympathetic and cultured. So the actors were in good spirits and put forth their best efforts. And this was no mean lot of actors. Mr. Burke as Croaker in spite of his over exaggerated make up was one of the best players that ever appeared in the New Grand. His portrayal of the man who is ever crabbed and complaining and yet who who has beneath a crusty surface a tender heart was perfect.

Mr. Thomas was admirably fitted for the part of Honeywood, the good-natured man. Mr. Souther as Loffy and Mr. Glauber as Sir William Honeywood and Mr. Furlong as Leontine also appeared to much advantage. Miss Hudler, the leading lady, took the role of Miss Richland admirably. The greatest requirement of this part is to look pretty, which Miss Hudler certainly did, but occasionally there is need of histrionic ability and Miss Hudler had that.

Miss Hurst as the ever laughing, giddy wife of Croaker could not have been improved upon.

A very meritorious bit of acting was done by Miss Seifert, who played as Olivia. This is another role where good looks are essential and that is about all that is demanded. Miss Seifert, though, by close attention to the part and clever interpretation of stage business made a minor role one of the most prominent. She is the best ingenue that has appeared before the local footlights this season.

Every part was given with care and the stage direction was excellent. The costumes were elegant. The "Thyrus" company is far better than most professional organizations making one night stands.

Between the second and third acts Mr. Burke called the manager, D. A. Ruebel, to the stage and on the behalf of the company presented him with an elegant stick pin. Dan Ruebel is a Lexington boy who has made a remarkable record in college. While working his way through, he has become connected with almost every department of student activity and is one of the most prominent men in Washington University. The large size of the audience was due largely to his local popularity.

The Gordon-Telephone Case.

The jury in the case of John P. Gordon vs the Lafayette Telephone Company rendered a verdict for damages of $1 and assessed the costs to the defendant. This was the second trial of the case. In the first trial Mr. Gordon was given a verdict for $300.

This case grew out of a severe trimming given some shade trees on the west side of Mr. Gordon's residence property by the telephone company. The case was complicated by the fact that upon a re-survey the trees were found to have been set in the street. Chiles and Welborn and Lyons represented the plaintiff, and Aull and Graves the defendant.

Sparta Dance.

The Sparta Literary Society of the Wentworth Academy gave its annual ball at the Elks' Home Wednesday evening. The invitations and programs were elegant and every detail was carefully arranged. Every young lady received a half dozen American beauty roses. Smith's orchestra was at its best and furnished some of the best dance music that has been heard in Lexington for sometime. Refreshments were served by Hinesley.
